

MALCOLM STARK

I have practiced in Greensboro with LeBauer Gastroenterology, a division of Cone Health, since 1992. In my free time I enjoy hiking, tennis, reading and traveling. I am the proud father of 4 wonderful adult children: two live in Charleston, one lives in Raleigh, and one lives in Austin, TX. Three are UNC-CH graduates and one is an NC State graduate.

I've been an NCSG Board member since 2019 and an NCSG member since 2009. The NCSG serves an important role by engaging our statewide community of GI physicians and APPs to promote the highest standards of GI practice. It has been a privilege to contribute to this effort. Here is a little more about my professional background: I have been the Director of our Cone Health Medical Group since 2015 and since 2014 Clinical Professor in the Department of Medicine at UNC. I did my undergraduate studies at the University of Rochester and attended medical school at New York University. I finished residency at the University of Virginia and did my GI fellowship at Georgetown University including a year training in Biliary Endoscopy and Endoscopic Ultrasound.
